The Evangelical Review of Theology (ERT) (ISSN 0144-8153) has been published since 1977. Until April 2020, it was published as a quarterly journal by Paternoster Periodicals, UK. As of August 2020, ERT is becoming a free electronic journal, with hard copies available on request as a modest subscription cost. We intend to publish in August and November and then establish a publication schedule for 2021 depending on the level of interest generated and the quality of submissions attracted.

ERT publishes quality articles and book reviews from around the world (both original and reprinted) from an evangelical perspective, reflecting global evangelical scholarship for the purpose of discerning the obedience of faith, and of relevance and importance to its international readership of theologians, educators, church leaders, missionaries, administrators and students.

The journal is published as a ministry rather than as a commercial project, seeking to be of service to the worldwide spread of the gospel and the building up of the church and its leadership, in co-ordination with the World Evangelical Alliance's broader mission and activities.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

We publish articles of scholarly quality, but with an emphasis on practical application and written in a manner that is readable by the general Christian public, consistent with the WEA's interest in helping Christians to 'discern the obedience of faith'. We welcome a broad range of submissions. Along with theology and biblical studies, we have recently published articles on church history, education, mission, ethics, evangelism, and the church's engagement with culture.

Submit articles to Bruce Barron at bruce.barron0@gmail.com. There is no payment for articles accepted, but we provide authors with a free printed copy of the issue in which their submission appears.

Articles are to be written in English and formatted according to the ERT style guide (provided below). Submissions not in ERT style will be considered, but the author may be requested to reformat the article before publication.

ERT seeks to attract a diverse range of submissions. To this end, non-native English speakers are encouraged to submit articles and should not feel obligated to pay for English-speaking editorial services first. If the content of the submission is worthy of publication, the Executive Editor will work with the author on improving the English.

ERT accepts quality articles that have already been published elsewhere, but republication rights and full details of the prior publication must be made available. Please provide a statement from the original publisher, indicating permission for republication in ERT.

Submissions should include the following:

- Title of article
- Name of author(s)
- Contact information
- Brief synopsis of the article's content (for review purposes only; we do not print abstracts)

Unsolicited submissions should also include:

- Biographical data on the author, including highest degree and where it was earned
- A statement indicating that this article has not been published or offered for publication before, or if it has, indicating the details so that we may obtain the necessary permissions
- Article text, with footnotes in Chicago Manual of Style format. ERT does not use author-date style and does not include reference lists or bibliographies.

Articles should be submitted in Word format.

Tables and figures can be used if not overly complex. The maximum width to fit one column is 53mm and for two columns, 110 mm; make sure that any graphic is readable at those sizes. Supply separate files for each figure, in .jpg format and at least 300 dpi. Also insert the graphics in the relevant places in the manuscript with identifying caption. Any tables and figures used should be cited in the text before the place where they will appear.

Articles accepted for publication in ERT cannot be published elsewhere (in print, electronically or on the Internet), without written permission of the editors, and not normally for a period of one year after their appearance in ERT.

Authors preparing a submission to ERT may request a sample article from the Executive Editor to guide them in formatting.

Evangelical Review of Theology - Style guide

Fonts: use 12-point Times Roman throughout. Use italics sparingly for emphasis.

Headings should be centred and in bold type. Heading levels: Roman with period, Arabic with period, letter with parenthesis [I., 1., a)]

Paragraphs: Indent all paragraphs except the first paragraph after a heading. Avoid lengthy paragraphs. Due to ERT's two-column format, the editor may insert additional paragraph breaks to enhance readability.

Language: ERT generally uses British English. Use -ize endings rather than -ise.

Quotations: Use single quotation marks first and then double quotation marks where necessary. In accordance with British practice, place the ending quotation mark before the punctuation unless the quotation constitutes a complete sentence, in which case the period precedes the ending quotation mark.

Long quotations (50 words or more) should be indented. Beginning and ending quotation marks should not be used.

Footnote style: Follow the Chicago Manual of Style. General rules:

- For books: author, title (place of publication: publisher, year), page number. (Do not use p. or pp.)
- For journals or magazines: author, 'title', journal volume (year): page number. Also include issue number if available, e.g.: Evangelical Review of Theology 43, no. 1 (2019): 64.
- For subsequent citations, use author's last name and short title. Do not use ibid. or op. cit.

Keep footnotes brief, with limited information other than sources. Generally, information pertinent to the reader should be placed in the main text.

Abbreviated titles: Do not use periods in titles such as Dr, Rev, PhD, or USA. However, personal initials should have periods, e.g. C. S. Lewis.

Biblical references: use the abbreviated form of the book name like this: Rom 3:23-25. Use Arabic, not Roman (2 Timothy, not II Timothy). In text, do not use abbreviations but spell references out in full; abbreviations are to be used if in parenthesis.

e.g. Paul, in Romans 5:1-12, makes the point that ...

But: Paul makes the point (Rom 5) that ...

Use the following abbreviations without periods:

OT: Gen, Ex, Lev, Num, Deut, Josh, Judg, Ruth, 1, 2 Sam, 1, 2 Kgs, 1, 2 Chr, Ezra, Neh, Esth, Job, Ps, Prov, Ecc, Song, Is, Jer, Lam, Ezek, Dan, Hos, Joel, Amos, Obad, Jon, Mich, Nah, Hab, Zeph, Hag, Zech, Mal

NT: Mt, Mk, Lk, Jn, Acts, Rom, 1,2 Cor, Gal, Eph, Phil, Col, 1,2 Thes, 1,2 Tim, Tit, Phlm, Heb, Jas, 1,2 Pet, 1,2,3 Jn, Jude, Rev

If quoting passages of Scripture, indicate what version of the Bible you have used.

Dates: use British style (e.g. 9 March 1872); include all digits in inclusive years (1969–1970).

Numbers: spell out numbers under one hundred and all round numbers that can be stated in two words (e.g. six hundred, fifteen thousand).

A New Approach to Mission

James Ebenezer

Bio-Data: James Ebenezer (ThD, Biblical Seminary) is head of Theology at the Biblical Seminary, London, UK and a former evangelist and missionary with experience on a global scale. He is an ordained minister of the Gospel Church and is the author of Training for Evangelism (Integrity, 2005) and Towards a Biblical Theology of Mission (New Word, 2006); he edited A Dictionary of Contemporary Evangelism (New Word, 2000) and has published numerous journal articles; he has also been a featured speaker at several key conferences and seminars.

Contact Details (postal and email): Dr James Ebenezer, PO Box 1234, Hampton, London EHB 312, UK, jebenezer@bibsem.com

Abstract: This article deals with the biblical foundations of mission, taking account of contemporary cultural trends, especially globalisation, migration and other important trends commencing from the experience of God's people in OT times and working through the early church, and missionary expansion. It is particularly concerned to show how the worship and fellowship of the local church can be a vital aspect of effective outreach.

Statement about Publication: An earlier version of this paper has been used by the author in lectures and seminars in many parts of the world but it has not been published before.

Guidelines for Book Reviewers

Book Review Editor: Peirong Lin peironglin@worldea.org

Books will be forwarded to reviewers after initial contact and discussion about the suitability of the reviewer for the particular book. By agreeing to receive the book, reviewers undertake to read the book thoroughly, prepare a review, and transmit it by e-mail within 3 months of the date of receiving it. Otherwise the Book Review Editor may request the book to be returned so it can be reassigned. The names of reviewers and brief details of their position are published with the reviews.

When completed, the book belongs to the reviewer and may be retained or disposed off at the reviewer's pleasure.

The review will be published as soon as possible after receipt, but this decision rests with the Editor. There is no honorarium or other payment for the reviews, but reviewers receive complimentary copies of the issue in which their review appears.

Reviewers may seek the assistance of others in preparing the review. In such cases, it is the responsibility of the parties to decide what names appear on the review. If more than one name appears, personal details of all (as mentioned below) should be supplied.

Reviews should normally be between 600 and 800 words in length, but if the book warrants it, longer reviews can be considered, after consultation with the Editor. Reviews can be shorter if the book does not merit a full-length review. The Editor may request that some books be given 'Short reviews' or 'Book Notices' which are 150 to 200 words in length (excluding book details).

We also welcome book review proposals or suggestions of books to be reviewed.

Reviews should be e-mailed to the Book Review Editor as a Word attachment.

The heading at the top should show:

- date,
- reviewer's name,
- qualifications and current position,
- contact information (mailing address and e-mail).

The following details should also be placed at the top, each one on a separate line, and centred:

- Title of book including any official sub-title, series details, etc.
- Author of book (full name and titles if known)
- Place of publication, publisher, date of publication
- If relevant, details of volumes, revision/editions, translators, second publishers etc
- Indicate whether hardback or paperback and then the number of pages, and indicate if any of the following appear: bibliography, index, illustrations.

Towards a Biblical Theology of Mission: Thoughts from a Seasoned Practitioner

James A. Ebenezer

Old Town, Canada: New Word, 2006

Pb., 250 pp., bibliog., index, illus.

*Reviewed by Oswald Zechariah, Professor of Theology,
New Word Seminary of the Bible, New Bristol, South Africa*

* PLEASE BE SURE TO CHECK THAT YOU HAVE INCLUDED ALL THE REQUIRED DETAILS ACCURATELY
BECAUSE WE CANNOT DO SO IF YOU HAVE THE BOOK!

The review should be thorough and critical, but honest and courteous, and angled towards theologians, theological students, theological educators/administrators and church and mission leaders, remembering that the audience of ERT is international. It should aim to give a clear and reliable although not necessarily detailed or exhaustive indication of the contents of the book, and it should especially present the book's perspective and argument, and its significance within the discipline it represents; it should also make clear what kind of reader it will interest and how it can best be used. Any significant limitations should also be mentioned.

If the book is not really suitable for or of a quality for review, contact the editor. References to page numbers of quoted material are not needed unless it is especially significant in some way. Please put any verbatim quotations in single quote marks and quoted quotes in double quote marks. Footnotes are not used in reviews.

The position, qualifications and status of the book's author should also be made clear. If there is anything special to note about the author, publisher or circumstances of the book, please make these items clear as well.

Along with all the above, the review should be interesting to read and should aim for some kind of grace and style.
